

Counties of Scotland

Since 1996, Scotland has 32 council areas (Counties and Shires). Historically, Scotland was divided into 34 counties or shires. Although these no longer have any administrative function, they are still used to some extent in Scotland for cultural and geographical purposes, and some of the current council areas are named after them.

Below there are the 31 historical mainland counties (shires), which excludes the island groups of Shetland, Orkney and Bute. Can you match up the number to the county?

	Aberdeenshire		Dumfries		Lanarkshire		Roxburghshire
	Angus		Dunbarton		Midlothian		Selkirkshire
	Argyll		East Lothian		Moray		Stirlingshire
	Ayrshire		Fife		Nairnshire		Sutherland
	Banffshire		Inverness		Peebles		West Lothian
	Berwickshire		Kincardineshire		Perth		Wigtownshire
	Caithness		Kinross		Renfrew		Roxburghshire
	Clackmannanshire		Kirkcudbright		Ross and Cromarty		