

Countries of Europe

Europe consists of 44 countries according to the official United Nations list, while in broader geographic lists it's 51, depending on how you count countries that sit between Europe and Asia or have disputed borders. Europe covers approximately 10,186,000 square kilometres (3,933,000 sq. mi), or 2% of Earth's surface making it the second-smallest continent. It had a total population of about 745 million (about 10% of the world population) in 2021.
